Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kurschner et al. U.S. Patent 4,905,969. Kurschner et al. shows all of the claimed subject matter of a reinforced netted sheet in the figures 1-7.

Regarding claim 1, a reinforced netted sheet comprising a first wire set 4 and a second wire set 2 intersecting said first wire set, each of said first and second wire sets including a plurality of spaced-apart coarse and fine wires, said coarse wires intervening said fine wires, said coarse wires of said first and second wire sets being welded (this is inherent to most fence netting, in order to keep it together) to one another at intersecting junctures of said coarse wires.

Regarding claim 2, wherein each of said first and second wire sets 3 and 4 has a plurality of pairs of adjacent coarse wires, each of said pairs of said adjacent coarse wires intervening every two groups of said fine wires.

Regarding claim 3, wherein each of said coarse wires intervenes every two groups of said fine wires.

Regarding claim 4, wherein each of said groups of said fine wires includes three of said fine wires. (as seen in Fig. 4)

Regarding claim 5, wherein each of said groups of said fine wires includes four of said fine wires. (as seen in Fig. 4)

Regarding claim 6, wherein each of said coarse wires of each of said first and second wire sets is formed from at least two fine wires that are close to each other and that are partially adhered along the length of said fine wires.
